Message from the Guest Editors

We are organizing a Special Issue of Sustainability entitled “Monitoring of Environmental Matrices: New Scenarios and Future Perspectives”. This Special Issue welcomes papers highlighting the effectiveness and the challenges of monitoring activities in different fields. We believe that the scientific contributions from cultural fields of different origins are highly effective for the development and promotion of research and innovation in the conservation, protection, and requalification of the environment. In this context, we promote multidisciplinary and interdisciplinary studies on monitoring issues aimed at the prevention of environmental damages, the protection of ecosystems, the integrated and sustainable management of resources, even focusing on strategies and actions for reducing climate change impacts, including the development of policies for land use governance. Moreover, the integrated monitoring activity by scientists of different backgrounds allows a better understanding of the response of the environment to multiple stressors.

Message from the Editor-in-Chief

I encourage you to contribute a research or comprehensive review article for consideration for publication in Sustainability, an international Open Access journal which provides an advanced forum for research findings in areas related to sustainability and sustainable development. Sustainability publishes original research articles, review articles and communications. I am confident you will find the journal contributes to enhancing understanding of sustainability and fostering initiatives and applications of sustainability-based measures and activities.
